Press Release

Warburg-HIH Invest Reinforces Research Division at its Hamburg Office

- Prof. Felix Schindler, MRICS, to reinforce the cycle-based fund management
- He is a senior real estate analyst, transferring from FERI EuroRating Services AG

Hamburg, 06 January 2016 – The Hamburg-based company Warburg-HIH Invest Real Estate GmbH (Warburg-HIH Invest) has bolstered the research team at its Hamburg office with the appointment of Prof. Felix Schindler as of January 2016.

Before transferring to Warburg-HIH Invest, Prof. Felix Schindler worked as Senior Real Estate Analyst for FERI EuroRating Services AG in Bad Homburg. After completing a degree program in macroeconomics, he obtained a doctorate from the Albert-Ludwigs-University of Freiburg in south-west Germany in 2008. He went on to become head of the “Investment Markets” core area at the Centre for European Economic Research (ZEW) in Mannheim, his focus being on real estate. Since 2010, he has also taught real estate as a junior professor at Steinbeis University in Berlin.

“The sound performance of our investment products and our management services, including in the long-term segment, has confirmed the probity of an investment policy that takes a strategic approach and actively manages our cycle-based investment funds. Against this background, we are delighted to see the expertise of Prof. Schindler added to the research team at our Hamburg office as it will boost our current approach,” said Eitel Coridaß, Managing Director of Warburg-HIH Invest and in charge of its Fund Management division.
